

Know the Issues

Keeping informed about the issues in this year's election is vital. Disinformation abounds. The antidote to disinformation is becoming informed and conversant in the facts.

- Check in with your trusted news organizations often.
- Take time to think critically about what you hear.
- Learn about the issues and their impact on you.
- Be aware of how wedge issues are used to divide us.
- Be prepared to share what you know with others.

Social Media

Social media is a great place to share your views and discuss issues with others. It is also a great place to find like-minded people, network, and organize. Remember to be wary of and not feed the trolls who may try to interfere with your use of social media.

Forums and Rallies

Forums and Rallies are great places to learn about and support candidates. Local not-for-profits like the League of Women Voters or local political organizations and clubs often sponsor these. Check your search engine for organizations in your area and their Websites to learn about opportunities to attend and engage.

Donate

It is said that money is the mother's milk of politics. Donating any amount is important to a campaign. One can donate in-kind goods and services as well. One way to do this is to post a campaign sign in your store window or yard. Another is to donate services such as legal catering services.

What is your voting plan?

www.vote.gov

This Website helps to register voters in every state and answers questions about voting.

Voting is the foundation of our democracy. Elections are fundamental to selecting our leaders. People participate in elections in various ways. Besides voting, one can volunteer for non-partisan organizations, political parties, or campaigns to register voters and get out the vote.

People also influence elections with letters to the editor, social media, and conversations with others. Campaign contributions influence election outcomes as well. This handout delves into the many ways you can participate in the 2024 election.

ProtectTheVote.Net

If you agree that every eligible voter deserves to have their vote count, you can take action from home or in person by serving as a nonpartisan Election Protection Volunteer. Lawyers and non-lawyers may volunteer.

This is the most consequential election of our lifetimes. Don't be left on the sidelines.

When we vote, when we work hard to help everyone vote, WE WIN!
